From the RICHMOND ENQUIRER.

TRIAL
OF
COLONEL A. BURR.
MOTION FOR COMMITMENT.
EXAMINATION OF EVIDENCE.

THURSDAY, October 1.

(General Wilkinson's testimony continued.)

Gen. Wilkinson proceeded. The next question which was asked was, whether I had not made private communications to Lieutenant Jones. I have said that I gave no order to Lieutenant Jones; but if I had there are documents to show it not a justification of my conduct in all the measures I pursued, at least an extenuation.

[Here gen. Wilkinson presented several papers shewing the agitated state of New Orleans. They were not read. See notes, O P Q R.]

Mr. Wickham to Gen. Wilkinson. Do you recollect the last question I put to you—Has your conduct in seizing Swartwout, B. L. man, Ogden and Adair been approved or disapproved by the government; and have you received any communications from the government on this subject?

General Wilkinson said he must refer to his honor to know whether he was bound to answer that question.

[The Chief Justice declared that it might be answered under the instructions laid down.]

General Wilkinson. I can say that three of these persons, perhaps four, were seized on my own responsibility, without any orders from government.

Mr. Wickham. Which three? A B. L. man, Swartwout, Ogden, and perhaps Adair.

Mr. Wickham. Had you any orders then, or afterwards to seize them; had you any orders with respect to the seizure of Colonel Burr by military force? A No; not at that time. Q Had you any afterwards?

General Wilkinson. That is a question of very great delicacy with me. (Addressing the judge) can a question be fairly put and an answer coerced which may destroy a man's honor?

[Mr. Wickham said there was no rule of law which prevented a witness from giving an answer unless it subjected him to a criminal prosecution. Mere sympathies were no cause of refusal. However unpleasant these questions might be to gen. Wilkinson it would be a shameful dereliction of duty in the counsel of Colonel Burr not to put them. He said that he had not experienced any sympathies towards his client.]

Gen. Wilkinson to the Judge. Is a trial before a court martial similar to a criminal prosecution? I might be subjected to military punishment, to as severe punishment as could be inflicted by a civil tribunal for revealing my orders.

The Chief Justice said that he was not sure that gen. W. could be required to answer that question.

[Mr. Wickham contended that there could be no articles of war which could punish a man for disclosing what he is called upon to declare in a court of justice. The court had a right to require the disclosure and would enforce its own authority.]

Mr. McKee contended that when the answer required would lead to the discovery of a fact which might subject a man to punishment, it was always deemed a good reason to withhold it. He understood the answer which might be given by gen. W. to be of this nature. The question was calculated to extract from him a fact, the disclosure of which might tend to subject him to punishment. He could not say what could be done before a military tribunal; but it was possible that he might be punished if he should answer in a particular way. Suppose he should say that government did not authorize him to seize the persons of Burr and his accomplices; and that he acted on his own responsibility; or suppose that he should be acting under the authority of government, but upon examining his powers, should find that he had transgressed them; would not a disclosure of this fact criminate him and subject him to a prosecution?

The Chief Justice said that the question did not lead to the fact of seizing those persons, but to the authority on which it was done. If gen. W. had committed the act with authority he must shew his orders.

Mr. Wickham said he did not believe that any thing which gen. Wilkinson could say would be legal evidence in the cause.

It was not that kind of evidence which was admissible in prosecutions of this nature. But it is as important to know what orders the government had given and whether he had exceeded those orders.

Mr. Martin. We wish to know the conduct and character of the government on this occasion. We wish to know whether any and what orders were given by the government. Is there to be one rule as to the prosecution, who wish to take the life of a man away, and another rule as to the man whose life they seek to take?

Mr. Hay had no objection to an answer from gen. Wilkinson as to the conduct of the government throughout. He said that Mr. Martin had disclosed his real object to be, to try the government and not the accused. Will this ascertain the innocence or guilt of col. Burr? The object evidently was to arraign the government before the bar of the public; but he was perfectly satisfied that when the conduct of the government should be known, the people of the U. S. would think that the government had done exactly what it ought to have done.

Mr. Wickham. In commenting on the evidence we shall endeavor to shew that a number of witnesses have been brought forward by the government who have taken a most decided part in the prosecution; and that their real object has been to render themselves acceptable to government.

Gen. Wilkinson. I had an order from the government. Mr. Wickham. From what department? A From the administration. Q From whom? A From Mr. Jefferson. Q Have you any written order? A I have among my papers, but I will not produce it. I had rather go to jail. Mr. Wickham demanded the production of the order; but said that if general Wilkinson required time to consider of the consequences of a refusal, he had no objection to allowing it to him. Gen. W. (addressing the judge) you are from professional experience more competent to decide on the propriety of revealing my orders than I possibly can be. The letter which conveys the particular order alluded to may embrace a variety of other matters, many parts of which it would be highly criminal in me to divulge. I conceive I should forfeit my honor and the confidence of all military men, if I were to reveal my correspondence with the government, without the command of my superior.

(Mr. Hay had no doubt but the order was in strict conformity with law; but if there be private and confidential communications in the letter, it would not be required of gen. Wilkinson to produce it.)

Chief Justice. If the order be mingled with other things, private and confidential, the court will not require its production.)

Letter from general Andrew Jackson, to his excellency William C. C. Claiborne, Esq.

SIR,

ALTHOUGH it is a long time since I sat down to write you, still that friendship which once existed, remains bright on my part, and although since I had the pleasure of seeing you, I have waded through difficult and disagreeable scenes; still I have all that fondness for my former friends that I ever had and my memory has been more endeared to me by the treachery I have experienced since I saw you by some newly acquired ones. Indeed I fear treachery is become the order of the day. This induces me to write you. But your town in a state of defence, organize your militia and defend your city as well against internal enemies as external; my knowledge does not extend so far as to authorize me to go into detail; but I fear you will meet with an attack from quarters you do not at present expect. Be upon the alert; keep a watchful eye on our general, and beware of an attack, as well from your own country as Spain. I fear there is something rotten in the state of Denmark. You have enemies within your own city, that may try to subvert your government, and try to separate the union. You know I never hazard ideas without good grounds; you will keep alert; your government I fear is in danger. I fear there are plans on foot inimical to the union; whether they will be attempted to be carried into effect or not I cannot say; but rest assured they are in operation or I calculate boldly. Beware of the month of December. I love my country and government; I hate the Dons; I would die light to see Mexico reduced, but I will die in the last ditch before I would yield a foot to the Dons or see the union disunited. This I write for your own eye and for your own safety; profit by it, and the Ides of March remember.

With sincere respect,
I am, as usual,
Your sincere friend,
(Signed)
ANDREW JACKSON.

Deposition of commodore Shaw.
Be it known that on or about the seventh day of January, anno domini 1807, Mr. Bradford, printer of the New Orleans Gazette waited on this deponent, capt. Shaw of the United States navy, and after delivering a letter from a correspondent, he observed that he had spent some time in the city of Washington and Philadelphia; and from Philadelphia he had travelled to Pittsburgh, and from thence proceeded towards New Orleans; that the country through which he passed was filled with commotion and that there were a great number of the friends and followers of col. Burr. Mr. Bradford also mentioned that he had seen at the mouth of Cumberland river some of the public gun boats and a number of men employed in fitting them out, and that they were to join Burr; that the men at work on the gun boats told him (Bradford) that col. Lyon had given up the gun boats to col. Burr, and that he col. Lyon was one of Burr's partizans: Bradford further observed that he saw a number of small arms which he supposed were carried on board the gun boats, and that the men at work on board the gun boats informed him (Bradford) that col. Burr had issued arms and ammunition to 12,000 men that Burr's flotilla consisted of 7 gun boats and a brig of ten guns, and that capt. Talbot was commander of the flotilla: Bradford also observed, that he was suspected, and that to prove his innocence he would wait on gen. Wilkinson and disclose to him all he knew concerning Burr and his plots, and further this deponent says not.

Deposition of Commodore Shaw & Wm. Tharp.
Be it remembered, that this day, to wit: the 16th day of April, anno Domini 1807, personally appeared before me the subscriber, one of the justices of the peace for the city and parish of New Orleans, John Shaw, Esq. captain in the U. States navy, and William Tharp, Esq. who being first duly sworn on the Holy Evangelist of Almighty God, declare and say, that on or about the fifteenth day of January last, 1807, passing from the coffee-house, about the hour of 12 o'clock at noon, they were accosted opposite the principal by Judge Prevost of this place, who observed that he was happy to inform these deponents, that General Adair, the second in command to Col. Burr, had arrived in town and was then at Madam Nourage's, that he had just waited on him, or had seen the man who had created so much stir, who said Colonel Burr would be in town in three days, after him, that it would soon be discovered if the constitution and justice would prevail, or that of the usurpation of power and tyranny manifested in the measures at present adopted. Other remarks were made by the judge in tone and gesture discovering evident marks of irritation and opposition to the measures of the officers of the government, and impressed one of these deponents with an idea that the judge's object was to be personal with Capt. John Shaw, and extorted a reply that he (Captain Shaw) knew no private character he obeyed, and executed his orders without partiality, and should always be alert to meet and apprehend the disturbers of the peace and harmony of his government. These deponents remained but a few minutes with judge Prevost, and went to the lodgings of the captain, where the deponents considered it correct to inform general Wilkinson, that general Adair was then in town, which captain Shaw did by sending his servant with a note to gen. Wilkinson.

Copy of a letter from Wm. White to col. Andrew Burke, of New Orleans.

MIDDLETON, Dec. 23d, 1806.
DEAR SIR,
Expect a large military force to take possession of your city—should it not happen before this reaches you, you may look out with hourly expectation of seeing it headed by col. Burr.

This is intended, should you see it in time, to apprise, in order that you be in readiness to make your advantages of the times. A number of persons from the neighborhood are engaged in this expedition, amongst the number is your old acquaintance Mr. A. Relston.

FROM THE LONDON TIMES—Sept. 7.

The political horizon, both to the east and west, appear at present sufficiently dark and lowering. Russia on the one side, and America on the other, are, if reports says true, ready to wreak their wrath upon us. Perhaps, however, notwithstanding present appearances, the prospect may brighten ere long, as the clouds are sometimes thickest just before they break and disperse. Our opinion as to the matter of dispute with the Americans, we have before given, and shall now submit a few remarks, on what are said to be the reports circulated respecting the dispatches brought over in the Revenge cutter. As to Russia, we know not as yet what may be the nature of the grievance of which she complains, and therefore can say but little at present on that subject. We trust we have sufficiently shewn, that the principle on which we have made an attempt to get the Danish navy into our possession, even whether it is just or unjust, is not one which at all extends to the natives of other continental powers; and therefore Russia can have no occasion to take alarm on that account. We allow, in the fullest extent, her adequacy to defend her own neutrality against the demands of France, but deprecate and decry, in the strongest manner, the temerity of throwing away that neutrality, so dearly purchased by the treaty of Tilsit. We would just ask this plain question—Would Russia have renewed the war against France, supposing Bonaparte, instead of England, had seized the Danish navy? And if not, what right she can have to prevent our preservation, which she would not have prevented our enemy from taking, for our destruction? We can only suppose our question to be answered in the negative; the contrary opinion, namely, that the emperor Alexander would so have made war upon Bonaparte, is too extravagant to be entertained for a moment. And we think we are not asking too much of our late ally, when we only demand strict impartiality in the war between us and France. Tros Tyruse, mihi nullo discrimine agatur, could be the emperor's rule. But the Russians, it is said, hiss the English whenever they meet them in the streets of St. Petersburg. Perhaps the unfortunate conclusion of the last war may be the occasion of any hostile manifestation on the part of the Russian populace, in which the government has no concern. If it is, we can only say that they have at least a great occasion to be angry with themselves for being beaten, as with us for being useless allies to them when they were so beaten. But perhaps they may suppose, that the late war on the continent would not have had so disastrous a termination if we had been more active in the common cause.

We allow it, if they will have it so, in the fullest extent; and what is that but saying in other words, that Russia is not a match for France without the assistance of England. Where then is the prudence of Russia's uniting with France to subjugate or even weaken England? Does not this very argument prove that Russia is strong in our strength? The emperor of Russia may be well assured, that in allowing his competence to maintain his independence, we have accused him of the greatest crime that can possibly exist in the eyes of that man who governs France. Such competence would soon be put to the proof, if he could once remove the barrier that we have thrown in his way. Let him but subdue us, and the British navy would indeed enter the Baltic, but with other views than any that have ever been harbored by the British cabinet or nation. It would then be seen of what consequence it is to keep a fleet out of the hands of such a man as Bonaparte; and as you cannot eradicate the pestilent passion of ambition from his breast, to overlook minor considerations, your endeavours to the agency and to the world as possible from the traction of its vortex, powered up.

Now making every allowance for a slow passage, the American government must have taken nearly as many weeks to draw up their complaint, as they are said to el-low ours days to frame their answer.

Now what reason can there be for all this?
We shall discuss this point very briefly
as the opinions we have to advance are obvious enough. When of two parties are negotiating, the one has an evident advantage in temporizing and protracting, the other has an evident right to insist upon immediate and categorical answers; because he otherwise would lose
by treating, what he might gain by acting,
the negotiation would in that case become so evil. And on this ground it was that Bonaparte demanded immediate satisfaction, himself prebidding the limited time, on the subject of the entrenched
camp, in Friuli and other parts antecedent
to the last war between Austria & France.

To have waited the Austrian time
would have allowed space for the completion of her plans. For the same reason Mr. Freze broke off the negotiations in Spain, because the evident intention of Cervillos and the Prince of Peace was to gain time, by protracting them for the arrival of their galleons in the Spanish ports.
But what plea can America advance for thus insolently dictating to us, as she is said to do, the precise day and hour in which we are to perform what ought to be a spontaneous act of our own? Does she suppose she can overwhelm us before our preparations are brought to a state of perfection sufficient to meet their doughty valor? Or are her merchants impatient at the delay which a state of uncertainty imposes on them, in sending out and calling home their investments? But if the apprehension of a war with England produces such a stagnation of trade, what will the reality do? One hundred and sixty vessels under the American flag, we do not suppose that they were all actually Americans, entered the harbor of St. Petersburg alone in the year 1802: how will they get there in future if America involves herself, wilfully involves herself with England? And if we are to judge of this specimen of her diplomacy, is she not endeavoring so to do? A just grievance may be discussed and compensated at any time, there is no statute of limitations to the reparation of an injury, if an injury America has received. Intemperate ardour and popular clamors subside in a season, but an immediate answer if such has been required, is a deadly proof against the moderation of the Americans.

If their claims are to be discussed in this temper of mind, we know not what the termination will be. It is true the condition above alluded to is extrinsic to the dispatches themselves; they may be of a pacific tendency; they may be so; we suppose they will be so; but if the garish dish be nightshade, there is good reason to suppose that there is poison in the diet which it contains.

The emperor of France, in replying to the kingdom of Italy, says:

"For the first time after so many ages,
the Italians have appeared with honor on the grand theatre of the world; their con-

the nation; that even the women will dis-languish round their toilettes, or at least that they will not receive them, till they are

By the brig Sally Tracy, from Bayonne, we have received intelligence that 50,000
troops were to be at Bayonne on the 17th of September, and that Bonaparte was to meet them there on the 20th, previous to their march for Portugal, that government having agreed to put itself under the pro-

and informs, that on the 23d, at 10 A. M.

A letter from a respectable and cau-

On Monday last, the ship Tam, captain

The U. S. frigate Constitution, captain

at Gibraltar, when the Wasp and Constitution left that place, that an attempt would be made on the fortress by the French, and that the assembling of the troops at Bayonne was intended as a preparatory step towards that object. Great preparations were accordingly making to put the forts
in the highest possible state of defence.

A letter from Halifax, dated the 1st inst.

Mud river Ohio. The colonel of that part went to them for the purpose of ascertaining their object and numbers. The Indians refused to give him any satisfaction on the subject. He then went to the prophet the Agricultural Society, for the improve-

Of the samples of wool he presented, the wt.

Do our fleeces in Massachusetts average 3lb, a fleece, when sheared once a year? We believe far short of it.

Six hundred of the Kentucky militia had crossed the Ohio at Limestone, command-were required to march for the purpose of dispersing them.

It was reported at Chillicothe, that 2000
Indians had crossed the lakes, and that a number of British agents were among them,
and it was supposed the former were waiting until joined by these others, when it was expected they would attack the whites.

"The French militia have been turned out; the second brigade on Tuesday last.—
The commander called on those he chose,
they being embodied, he called on every 5th man to step six paces out from the main body. His call was not obeyed in the least. Some said they would not step out without the rest, and some made bold to say they would not take up arms against the Americans, but would join them when they chose. Forty who said they would join the Americans, were committed for mutiny and will have their trial to-mor-

25 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY, some time in the months of November or Dec. last, a negro man by the name of SAM, who was hired in the town of Alexandria to a Mr. Robert Smith. He was about 30 years of age, about 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, very straight, of rather a yellowish or tawny complexion, stutters a little, has a soft voice, and generally seems humble and timid when spoken to. He had a wife at col. Jamieson's in the county of Caroline, and may perhaps be lurking in that neighborhood, but I think it more probable he may have gone to the state of Maryland. If taken in the state of Virginia and brought to me I will give the above reward; if in the state of Maryland and brought to me I will give 30 dollars reward.

ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.

GRAND LOTTERY, BALTIMORE.

AUTHORISED by the general assembly of the state of Maryland, the scheme of which is the most brilliant ever offered to the citizens of the U. S. containing besides a large number of other good prizes,

- 1 prize of 30,000 dollars.
- 1 do. of 15,000
- 2 do. of 10,000
- 2 do. of 5,000
- 3 do. of 1,500
- 7 do. of 1,000

Not two blanks to a prize, and the lowest prize is twelve dollars. The scheme contains only 21,500 tickets; 10,000 of which are actually sold to a company of gentlemen, in N. York, to whom the Managers have obligated themselves to commence the drawing in the city of Baltimore, On THURSDAY the 31st day of DECEMBER next, and to draw 500 tickets per day.

Tickets and Shares are now selling in a variety of numbers and very rapidly, at TEN DOLLARS and a HALF each, for a short time at

G. & R. WAITE'S

Truly Fortunate LOTTERY-OFFICE, corner of MARKET and CHARLES-STREETS, BALTIMORE.

The grandeur of the scheme of the above Lottery, together with an assurance from the Managers that it will positively commence drawing on the 31st day of December next, have been a sufficient inducement for the subscribers to come to the city of Baltimore for the express purpose of facilitating the sale of the tickets.

G. & R. Waite.

One of the above firm will personally attend the drawing daily, to take down the numbers correctly, as will also one of their clerks.

The next New York Lottery will not commence drawing till April next—tickets of which lottery may be had at J. Waite's offices, No. 64 and No. 38, Maiden Lane New-York.

Distant adventurers, accompanying their orders with bank notes of any description to either of Waite's offices, in New-York or Baltimore, may have Tickets and Shares forwarded to any amount with the utmost punctuality, and the earliest advice sent them of their success: All prizes sold by G. and R. Waite, will be paid by them.

144 Tickets in the above Lottery are to be had at J. March's book-store, George-Town, where the prize list will be regularly received. October 13. Staw 21a

GREAT BARGAINS.

INTENDING to remove to the state of Tennessee as soon as possible, I wish to dispose of the following valuable and increasing property upon low terms, which property I inherited from my ancestors, who have had a legal title to the same for upwards of one hundred years.

One tract well known by the name of ASHEDON, being on the Potomac river between Alexandria and George Town, and nearly opposite the city of Washington, beautifully situated, containing about Four Hundred acres, now leased to the Mr. Wises for three hundred and sixty dollars per annum with other stipulations contained in the said lease.

One other tract contiguous to the first, leased to William Fraser for forty dollars per annum, containing about six acres.

One other tract containing ten acres of bottom land, adjoining the Four Mile Mill tract.

One other tract contiguous to the Abingdon estate, and within two and a half miles of George-Town, containing 735 acres. The greatest part of this land is heavily covered with red and white Oak.

Three thousand acres on the Scioto River, in the state of Ohio.

This tract descended to me from my uncle George D. Alexander, being one moiety of the land he was entitled to for his military services during the revolutionary war. All the title papers with the wills under which I am entitled to the above property, are in the hands of BALDWIN DAVE, Esq. to whom application will please to be made for terms &c. he being legally authorized to contract and dispose of all the above valuable property, for which good and satisfactory titles will be given.

Walter S. Alexander.

District of Columbia.

County of Alexandria, ss.

July Term, 1807.

Charles I. Callitt and Ann Lis wife, complainants vs Thomas Fairfax, and the said Tho's Fairfax, executor of the said last will and testament of Bryan Lord Fairfax, deceased, defendants.

This cause coming on to be heard this 4th day of August, 1807, upon the bill and exhibits herein referred to, and it appearing to the court that the said bill had been duly and regularly taken for confession, and the cause set for decree upon the bill and exhibits, the court doth decree and order that Master Commissioner Moore, do make up and return an account and report between the complainants and the defendant, in his private & fiduciary character, upon the subjects in the bill mentioned; to state an account of one fourth part of the rents of the land, at and near the falls of the Potomac river, which land was formerly leased to Seiple, and which became due after the death of the said Bryan Lord Fairfax the Testator, and during the life of his wife Jane Fairfax the mother of the complainant Anne, and the interest on the same; and also state what portion of the said rents have been received by the said Thomas Fairfax or his agents; also take an account of all the Household Furniture, and also of the Horses, Cattle and other stock which were on the land bought by the said Bryan Lord Fairfax of Bennett, at the time of the said Bryan Lord Fairfax's death; also take an account of the annual rents and profits of that part of the Tract of Land in Fairfax County called Telston Grange, which is included in a deed of gift from the said Bryan Fairfax to the said Thomas Fairfax, from the time of the date of the said deed to the said Thomas Fairfax, to the time of the death of the said Bryan Lord Fairfax, and from the time of his death, to that of the death of the said Jane Fairfax; also to state an account of the administration of the defendant stating not only the debts due from and to the estate of the said Bryan Lord Fairfax, distinguishing such of the debts as are separate from such as are not; and also the amount of the assets of the estate of the said Bryan Lord Fairfax, and to state what specific legacies the said Bryan Lord Fairfax left, and what has become of the said legacies.

And to enable the said Commissioner to perform this Decretal Order, he is at liberty to examine witnesses upon oath, and report their testimony together with the several accounts so taken, to this Court, at their next session. A Copy Teste.
